

One Conversation at a Time

optimising one's leadership

Workshop Outline

Optimising one's leadership begins with developing effective communication skills and having the ability to engage fully in professional conversations. One Conversation at a Time will enable participants to understand the art of questioning for growth and strengthen their skills in order to build capacity within themselves and others. Developing the skills required of leaders that enable them to enhance their professional dialogue requires time, ongoing learning and significant practice. These are skills expected of leaders but not always easily acquired.

The seminar day will enable participants to engage with the theory of deepened professional conversation, practice the skills required and embed the language into their everyday interactions.

Ann Sexton

Ann is an experienced consultant, operating her own business for the past 10 years. Through her work Ann provides a range of professional learning opportunities to a variety of audiences from early years educators through to experienced executives. Ann has qualifications in education, welfare and business. Ann is actively engaged within her local community, having a strong belief in the importance of contributing to the community in which you live.

She resides in rural Victoria with husband Tom and is mum to a small tribe of five young adults.

Ann is a dynamic, engaging and fun presenter who prides herself on facilitating interactive, capacity building workshops with a strong focus on ensuring practical outcomes for participants.

V E N U E

Rydges Melbourne (CBD) - 186 Exhibition Street

W H E N

Friday 7 May 2021, 8:30am - 2:30pm

C O S T

Seminar Only - $95

Package Deal - $350

Package includes WIL Dinner, Seminar and Accommodation

FURTHER INFORMATION

vcssdpa.com